Dear Parents/Carers

RE: CHARACTER POTATO COMPETITION

In partnership with Veritas Education, children across school are being invited to take part in an exciting competition.

The children need to design their favourite book character using a potato; it can be as creative as they like! We have seen the quality of your egg competition entries so we know that Veritas Education will have a difficult task in judging!

Potato character entries can be brought into school for the week of World Book Day - beginning the week commencing 4 March and the final date for entries is Thursday 7 March. School will then photograph each entry and send them to Veritas Education for the final judging panel. Alternatively, if children want to make their entry over the half-term holiday, they can send/bring in a photograph of their entry before 7 March. Please hand directly into the class teacher and not the school office.

A winner from each school will be chosen and they will win a £10 voucher with the overall winning school receiving £100 worth of books for their library.

All entries need to have your child's name and class on. We will not send this information to Veritas Education, but it will help us identify the winners!

Good luck everyone.
